Growing up with both parents running a family-owned business, I have a deep understanding and appreciation for the time, energy, and effort that is required for a company to be successful. I aim to quickly and effectively assist my clients with any difficult situation that they encounter, in addition to helping clients implement measures to prevent issues from arising in the first place. My goal is to create and maintain strong relationships with my clients and to serve as their trusted advisor and advocate for all of their company's needs.

Anna's practice focuses on assisting clients through all aspects of contract review and negotiation, business reorganization and restructuring, corporate governance, and mergers and acquisition matters. Prior to joining Johnston Allison Hord, Anna was selected by the UNC Banking Institute to travel to Germany, where she spent two weeks taking classes at Eberhard Karls University in Tübingen, Germany, followed by two weeks interning at an international law firm in Frankfurt, Germany. During her time at UNC School of Law, Anna served on the board of Christian Legal Society and Law Students Against Domestic and Sexual Violence, and worked as a research assistant for Professor Joseph Kennedy as he drafted his forthcoming criminal procedure casebook. Additionally, Anna created her own pro bono project in which UNC law students assisted residents of a local homeless
