My goals as a trusts and estates attorney are to help clients plan for what matters the most, their family's wellbeing after they are gone and to guide their family through the probate process so they can focus more on remembering their loved one's life and legacy.

Stacy Reid Monroe is a seasoned trusts and estates attorney with almost two decades of paralegal experience working in estate settlement at well-respected law firms. Her principal areas of practice are estate planning and estate administration. Stacy understands how a succinct estate plan translates into a streamlined estate administration and tasks that fiduciaries face when serving as an Executor and Trustee in North and South Carolina. You can count on Stacy to listen to your goals, thoughtfully advise and craft estate planning documents that meet your objectives and resolve any issue that arises in estate administration.
